PORTLAND, TUESDAY, JUNE 5.

YESTERDAY'S ELECTION.

By far the most spirited canvass ever witnessed in Oregon terminated in yesterday's election. The result is the most significant republican triumph ever gained by the republicans in this state.

The majority for Bennett for representative in congress, cannot, we think, fall below 2500, and that for Lord for justice of the supreme court will be nearly as large.

In all parts of the state the republicans appeared at the polls with extraordinary spirit. The effort made by the administration at Washington, through its agents and officeholders, to carry the state, stimulated the republicans to unusual activity and exertion.

It is certain from the result that Oregon is a protection state. It may now be accepted as a fixed fact that protection of the industries and products of the state, through a tariff adjustment to secure them against foreign competition, will be maintained, so far as the votes of the people of Oregon can help to maintain it.

This vote in Oregon points to a like result in all the Northern states. The people of these states will not, indeed, object to revision and reduction of the tariff, provided the principle of retention and reduction be just and fair; but they will insist that the reduction shall not be accomplished on any partisan or sectional scheme, and that regard shall always be had for the interests of the country.

The utmost power of the administration has been employed to swing Oregon from republican moorings. Not only has the effort failed, but Oregon is more strongly and firmly republican than ever before. No announcement that Oregon has gone democratic will be telegraphed to-day to rattle a whoop in the St. Louis convention.

And the way in which Oregon has dealt with the administration's tariff policy is an indication of the treatment that both the administration and its policy will receive at the hands of many a state besides Oregon.

ABUSE OF AUTHORITY.

Twelve or fifteen arrests were made yesterday in this city by deputy marshals, some of them upon most trivial charges. In three or four cases charges of bribery were preferred, and these were awaiting examination.

The charges of "intimidating voters" were abundant, for no one can intimidate a voter in Oregon; though mention of the word does recall the fact that the democratic party intimidates a million voters in the United States, and holds the government through the crime.

One of the most interesting points pointedly informed Marshal Myers that he was making a fool of himself by these proceedings, and that building, though it might prevail elsewhere, wouldn't work in Oregon. One of Myers's deputies, Elmor-

A MAN OF STRAW.

The Oregonian has not unfrequently been afflicted by a correspondent, generally a woman or a feminine man, who, in attempting to say something that has appeared in this paper, simply proceeds in electing a man of straw, and logging it until the real question at issue is completely lost in a cloud of dust.

A good illustration of "the man of straw" debater is the amiable person who recently informed THE OREGONIAN that it didn't know what it was talking about when it said that it would be wise for the growing women who expected to work for a living to sell themselves for domestic service, since it was not as crowded and was a better paid, more comfortable and less demoralizing field of labor than many employments.

Ladies counsel-counselers are made for 25 cents a dozen. A regular counsel would receive at least 25 cents a piece. They are made on machines, and the result is that what can be earned by the workers is $3 a week.

Women doing piece work at home get 70 cents for making women's blouses. They are made of heavy cloth, the conservative brand, and the work is finished. By working from 5 to 6 in the morning until midnight a capable woman can make two blouses.

The price paid to a principal or a dressmaker for making an article would not be less than $1.00. Underlying, as it is made in large shops and under contract, is done in sections. That is to say, one set of girls make one part, another set another part, thus it is done on unit basis.

Girls are subjected as learners, and consequently are paid little. Under this method of work they learn nothing beyond their own section. After several years of work they know no more and receive no higher wages than the wages for machine-made underclothing are from $2 to $4 a week.

Thousands of girls in this city receive only $1 a week. Here is how one of them lives: She pays $1.25 rent, $1.00 for board and $1.00 for fuel, and at work at 5 o'clock. For lunch she has a couple of chocolate eclairs or cream puffs, which cost little and are sweet and satisfying.

Now the wages for decent domestic service in the East and the Middle West are at least $3 a week and board. The washing always and frequently the ironing is done outside the house.

Under special circumstances I am offered to sell the entire stock of PLANTS and vegetables at the corner of Second and 3 streets, at whatever price will bring. Everybody is invited to inspect the stock, and to purchase at a low price.

The late Matthew Arnold, while visiting a Boston leading newspaper, was asked to write a new story in one of the best of the "Do you let bare-footed boys in this reading room?" he asked. "You would never see such a sight as that in Europe. I do not believe there is a reading room in all Europe in which that boy, dressed as he is, would enter."

Arnold talked with the boy, found that he was reading the "Life of Washington" and for his age, was remarkably well informed. Arnold further said: "I do not think I have been so impressed with anything else I have seen since arriving in this country as I am now with meeting this bare-footed boy in this reading room."

By far the most spirited canvass ever witnessed in Oregon terminated in yesterday's election. The result is the most significant republican triumph ever gained by the republicans in this state.

The majority for Bennett for representative in congress, cannot, we think, fall below 2500, and that for Lord for justice of the supreme court will be nearly as large.

In all parts of the state the republicans appeared at the polls with extraordinary spirit. The effort made by the administration at Washington, through its agents and officeholders, to carry the state, stimulated the republicans to unusual activity and exertion.

It is certain from the result that Oregon is a protection state. It may now be accepted as a fixed fact that protection of the industries and products of the state, through a tariff adjustment to secure them against foreign competition, will be maintained, so far as the votes of the people of Oregon can help to maintain it.

This vote in Oregon points to a like result in all the Northern states. The people of these states will not, indeed, object to revision and reduction of the tariff, provided the principle of retention and reduction be just and fair; but they will insist that the reduction shall not be accomplished on any partisan or sectional scheme, and that regard shall always be had for the interests of the country.

The utmost power of the administration has been employed to swing Oregon from republican moorings. Not only has the effort failed, but Oregon is more strongly and firmly republican than ever before. No announcement that Oregon has gone democratic will be telegraphed to-day to rattle a whoop in the St. Louis convention.

And the way in which Oregon has dealt with the administration's tariff policy is an indication of the treatment that both the administration and its policy will receive at the hands of many a state besides Oregon.

ABUSE OF AUTHORITY.

Twelve or fifteen arrests were made yesterday in this city by deputy marshals, some of them upon most trivial charges. In three or four cases charges of bribery were preferred, and these were awaiting examination.

The charges of "intimidating voters" were abundant, for no one can intimidate a voter in Oregon; though mention of the word does recall the fact that the democratic party intimidates a million voters in the United States, and holds the government through the crime.

One of the most interesting points pointedly informed Marshal Myers that he was making a fool of himself by these proceedings, and that building, though it might prevail elsewhere, wouldn't work in Oregon. One of Myers's deputies, Elmor-

Arnold talked with the boy, found that he was reading the "Life of Washington" and for his age, was remarkably well informed. Arnold further said: "I do not think I have been so impressed with anything else I have seen since arriving in this country as I am now with meeting this bare-footed boy in this reading room."
